Art Unit: 3748

Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 as claiming the same invention as that of claims 1-20 of prior U.S. Patent No. 6883328. This is a double patenting rejection.

A rejection based on double patenting of the "same invention" type finds its support in the language of 35 U.S.C. 101 which states that "whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process ... may obtain a patent therefor ..." (Emphasis added). Thus, the term "same invention," in this context, means an invention drawn to identical subject matter. See Miller v. Eagle Mfg. Co., 151 U.S. 186 (1894); In re Ockert, 245 F.2d 467, 114 USPQ 330 (CCPA 1957); and In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970).

A statutory type (35 U.S.C. 101) double patenting rejection can be overcome by canceling or amending the conflicting claims so they are no longer coextensive in scope. The filing of a terminal disclaimer cannot overcome a double patenting rejection based upon 35 U.S.C. 101.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3, 11-18, 20-24, 27-31, 34, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US 4104535 (Bronicki).

Bronicki discloses a hybrid electric power generating system comprising a pair of power plants, the second power plant used the waste heat of the first power plant through the heat exchanger 26, a supplemental fuel source having a control 25 is used to supply supplemental fuel through valves 17-1, 17-2, and burners 14-1, 14-2, so that the second power plant can supply from 10% up to 50% of the total load (note column

Art Unit: 3748

8, claim 14). This 50% clearly indicates that the second power plant is able to produce 100% power of the first power plant. Also, on column 3, lines 51-52, seems to indicate that the second power plant can supply 100% of the electric load. On column 6, lines 8-11, Bronicki discloses that the second power plant is in hot standby load.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4-10, 19, 25-26, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. 4104535 (Bronicki). Bronicki discloses all the claimed subject matter as set forth above, but does not disclose different types of first power plant. However, it would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to select different types of first power plant in Bronicki to provide waste heat to the second power plant for the purpose of achieving appropriate amount of heat.

Claims 21-34 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-20 of U.S. Patent No. 6883328. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because of the following reasons.

Claims 1-20 of US 6883328 recite all the claimed subject matter but different arrangement, some limitations are in dependent claim instead of independent claims and vice versa. However, it would have been obvious for a person having ordinary skill in the art to modify the power plants in the claims to come up with the same invention as in this application for the purpose for achieving the same power output.

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

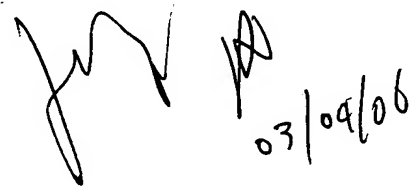

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Patton et al, Amir, US 4622472, Rosen et al disclose hybrid power plants.
